DEAN'S MESSAGE

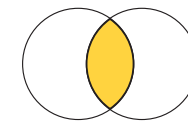

This year, SMU celebrates our 25th anniversary. Our Founders intended for us to be pathbreakers in the tertiary landscape in Singapore, and today, a quarter century later, CIS is proof of that spirit of bold disruption. Our Individualised Major, or Bachelor of Integrative Studies, Masters in Sustainability, and PhD programme in Asian Urbanisms are crystallised visions of the future of education. Join us, and be part of our movement of making meaningful impact.

PROFESSOR ELVIN LIM
Dean, College of Integrative Studies

BIS (IM) HIGHLIGHTS

METHODS ACROSS MAJORS: AN INTER-DISCIPLINARY INTRODUCTION TO RESEARCH

This course aims to empower students to critically engage with research findings across multiple disciplines. The course will highlight the inter-disciplinarity of research methods and showcase the methods used in economics, politics, geography, and behavioural sciences, with a focus on understanding the strengths and limitations of different research approaches and methods.

EXPLORING INTER-DISCIPLINARY HORIZONS: AN INTRODUCTION TO INTEGRATIVE STUDIES

This course introduces students to how inter-disciplinarity is essential for thinking through modern problems. It will become clear why and how contemporary challenges ought not be addressed through siloed approaches but instead demand inter-disciplinary approaches to fully unpack and understand the complexity of the various dynamics at play within these challenging areas. The course takes a close look at the concept of inter-disciplinarity within academic research and move on to exploring how you can design your own inter-disciplinary research projects, and the components, skills and knowledge required.

CLIMATE CHANGE: PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE

This course offers critical perspectives into the subject of climate change. Co-taught by experts in the fields of climate science, social science, and the humanities, it provides critical insights into the deep contexts of modern climate change, the complex relationship between climatic changes and humanity. Subjects include the history of climate science, understanding climate change as a complex problem, the role and efficacy of modern-day organisations in tackling climate change, and specific climate-induced challenges facing humanity, such as urban heat and extreme weathers.

INNOVATIONS FOR ASIA'S SMART CITIES

The world is rapidly urbanising. How do we pack more people into big cities and yet continue to achieve a high quality of life? How do we create and manage 'good cities' which are safe, spacious, green, connected, fair and resilient? How can cities create economic wealth while still fulfilling the CSR responsibilities of sustaining a "Green Planet"? What are the best practice designs and technical smart city solutions which could be leveraged to tackle these challenges and how can they be successfully commercialised? This course explores these questions with special emphasis on the managerial and commercial aspects of smart city concepts.

MODERN CHALLENGES

Contemporary society faces a range of challenges and problems that are distinct from previous epochs of time. These 'modern problems' plague communities across the globe and threaten the stability and sustainability of the societies where they are left un(der)addressed. To identify these challenges (and the associated 'solutions') requires a scholarly lens that is best informed by an inter-disciplinary and integrative approach. This course exposes students to a range of these 'modern problems' and relevant approaches, drawing from insights from the fields of economics, geography, philosophy, political economy, and urban studies.

BIS SYMPOSIUM

The Bachelor of Integrative Studies (BIS) Symposium is held in the first year of a student's BIS journey, and offers students a platform to present their ideas for their respective Individualised Major, as well as their Capstone Project/Senior Thesis proposal to a wide audience comprising fellow students, faculty experts and prospective employers. The BIS Symposium gives students the opportunity to receive critical feedback and refine their majors.

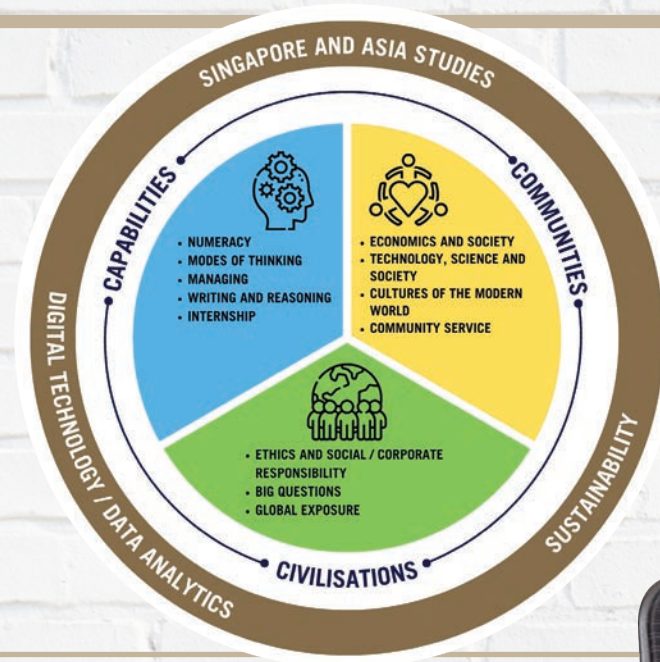

BIS COLLOQUIUM

The Bachelor of Integrative Studies (BIS) Colloquium is held at the end of a student's BIS journey, as a showcase of the student's Capstone Project or Senior Thesis. At the Colloquium, students will present their Capstone Project or Senior Thesis, giving them an opportunity to discuss their project and showcase their integrative skills and academic abilities.
